Early Out & Holiday Closings

As you may have noticed with the calendar, there is a slight change with Early Out Wednesdays this month. November 1st and 8th will be regular school days so our early outs will be Thursday the 2nd, and Tuesday the 7th at the usual time, 2:00.

As for our holiday hours, we are only closed on Thanksgiving Day this month. We will be open on the Wednesday before and the Friday after. Happy Thanksgiving!

Good Old Country

Harold and the band are back! Don't miss his visit on Thursday, November 9th at 6:00 PM!

Email Notices

Good news! We recently set up automated emails to go out to our patrons. These emails go out when items you have checked out are overdue. We hope these notices help people to return items faster and to cut down on the fees you may owe. In the future we may extend these notices to go out when you owe fees, but for now it is overdue items only. The emails go out Mondays at 9 AM. Be sure to come in and make sure we have your correct email information if you'd like to be notified this way.

Expanded Children's Section

If you have not looked into our of collection of J non-fiction in our library now is the time to start! Our section has expanded to include many new topics. The standard fare of fairy and folk tales holiday books, animal books, jokes, and poetry are still around. We've added new books on Native Americans, 21st century careers, math concepts, ecology books, science experiments, art projects with great supply lists you can do at home, grammar books and lots of biographies! Most of the new books for don't stop with the last page, often including websites you can access to learn more. This is a valuable resource for you and your child and we hope you come in to take advantage of this. Here is a short list of some of the titles:

Wheels & Axles

Screws

Levers

Wedges

Pulleys

Inclined planes

Search and Rescue Pilots

Computer Technicians

Dentists

Hero Therapy Dogs

Explore the Workplace: Hospital

New Materials!

New Fiction

The Red Hunter by Lisa Unger

Seeing Red by Sandra Brown

Friction by Sandra Brown

The Store by James Patterson

Christmas Tree Walk

It's that time of year again! It's our FIFTH annual tree walk, can you believe it?! Starting on November 25th, bring in a tree or wreath to decorate and display for your group or organization! The tree walk certainly makes what could be dreary days into festive ones, so join the holiday spirit! We have a scavenger hunt planned again this year, along with some other activities! It's sure to brighten up the library!

Book House Book Fair

We are having another book fair, sponsored by The Book House. Proceeds made during the fair go directly to our book collection, helping us provide you with your favorite books by your favorite authors and on your favorite subjects. The fair runs from November 6th to November 17th. You can come to the fair anytime during open library hours. Come see the selection!

Friends of the Library Week

October 15-21 was National Friends of Libraries week! To celebrate the Friends brought in a sheet cake and anyone who entered the library was given a piece. What a "Sweet" way to celebrate! Thanks Friends for all that you do!
