STEAM/STEM News

AV-2 books are part of the STEAM/STEM program offered at your library.

An AV-2 book can interact with the internet, and we have a selection of them here at the library. We also have several computer stations set up to use the books. Here's how it works: with the book in hand, go to www.av2books.com. Enter the book code (example AVL49645) located on the inside cover. Once you do this, online enhancements such as activities, key words, audio, video, quizzes, etc., become available. The book becomes something more than just a reading experience.

We currently have AV-2 materials about animals, other countries and art. We'll be receiving 3 more each month. These books can be checked out to use with a device at home, or can be used at our library stations.
