January Musing

January was named for the Roman god Janus, known as the protector of gates and doorways, which symbolize beginnings and endings. Janus is depicted with two faces, one looking into the past, the other with the ability to see into the future. What a fitting symbol for this first day of the year; this month is our door into the new year.

In the Northern Hemisphere, January is the coldest month of the year in most regions. According to folklore, the weather of the first 12 days of the year is said to be indicative of the following 12 months! Did you know the study of weather proverbs is known as paremiology?

*"January is here,
With eyes that keenly glow –
A frost-mailed warrior striding
A shadowy steed of snow."*

–Edgar Fawcett, American poet (1847–1904)
